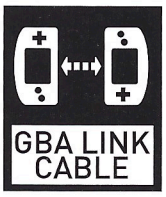
Use the icons on game boxes to determine which accessories Game Boy can use.



The "GBA Link Cable" icon appears on games that can use the Game Boy Advance Game Link Cable, which allows up to four players to connect their Game Boy Advance and Game Boy Advance SP systems to enjoy multiplayer fun.

The e-Reader icon appears on all trading cards compatible with the e-Reader. This accessory allows players to scan special "dot codes" into their Game Boy Advance or Game Boy Advance SP, enabling fun, new features.

In specially-designed Nintendo GameCube and Game Boy Advance games, the Game Boy Advance can be connected to the Nintendo GameCube to exchange data or provide other special functions, when using the Nintendo GameCube Game Boy Advance Cable.

The Entertainment Software Rating Board assigns a rating to a game so consumers are able to make informed game purchasing decisions!

The End-Cap of the packaging indicates these games are compatible only with the Game Boy Advance system!

The symbol that assures the best! The Official Nintendo Seal of Quality indicates the product has been tested and approved by Nintendo.

The "Link it Up" symbol appears on games that allow multiple players to link up and play using a single Game Pak and one or more Game Boy Advance Link Cables.
Games with the "Link It Up!" icon can be used for multiplayer fun with the use of one game pak! Multiplayer games that require each player to have a game pak will not have this icon. Multiplayer information for these games can be found on the back of the packaging.

In specially designed Nintendo GameCube and Game Boy Advance games, the Game Boy Advance can be connected to the Nintendo GameCube to exchange data or provide other special functions. Only games displaying the icon "Game Boy Advance Compatible" (on the back of the Nintendo GameCube games) or "Nintendo GameCube Compatible" (on the back of the Game Boy Advance games) can be used with this cable.

Check the End Cap and corners for information on which games are compatible with which systems.
